

Concert: December 21, 1937
Dayton Philharmonic Association

INLAND CHILDREN'S CHORUS

THERE is nothing more appealing—surely nothing can stir the imagination like the singing voices of children at Christmas time. And so, for the Program late in December, the Association has arranged to present with the Orchestra at Memorial Hall, the Inland Children's Chorus of one hundred boys and girls, founded and maintained by the Inland Manufacturing Division for the children of its employes. Under the direction of Richard Westbrook, this group has been developed into an outstanding children's musical organization.

Courtesy of Lucille (Batter) Neu