

Inland Children's Chorus To Appear With Orchestra Tuesday

Join Dayton Philharmonic; Unable To Go To Baltimore

BY VIRGINIA D. STURM

THE annual appearance of the Inland Children's chorus will be the occasion for the Dayton Philharmonic Orchestra's gala Christmas program Tuesday night.

The concert is to be given in the auditorium of the Masonic Temple under the direction of Paul Katz.

The Inland Children will be directed by Richard Westbrook. The chorus has made several appearances with the orchestra, and on each appearance has but strengthened their situation musically in the community.

It is unfortunate that conditions will not permit the Inland Children's chorus to accept the invitation from the program committee of the Biennial Convention of the National Federation of Music clubs to appear on the program in Baltimore in April.

Moving a large chorus of this type, and the people which would be required to look after their welfare would be a tremendous undertaking.

It is likely that the chorus will be able to sing at the next convention which will be in the mid-west, probably, in 1941.

Mary Werner MacCash has been the accompanist of the chorus since its inception.

ONE shouldn't brag about things until to one, but very lately I received a book which to my astonishment will provide almost as much pleasure in the future as it has sacrificed in the past.

The Book Album is designed to give you a handy reference to all the musical compositions you have heard, and give a listing of composers, and their compositions, and in definitely in the hands of a music album. It is intended that you should put in it records of your musical experiences and therefore enhance your memory.

The book really is a store of knowledge for those are already of some based into the book. Each page has a place for a complete record of each composition. What, when, where. There are also blank spaces for descriptive notes, and other things which are rather late and to be made in the future.

Whether you are young or old, feeling anxious to keep a record of the great music you have heard, or to give your friends a list of compositions heard, even your own records on their own terms, this is the book for you.

INLAND CHILDREN'S CHORUS

Mohrlich, Mrs. Carlton Smith, Mrs. Murray Smith, Mrs. Willie Allen, Mrs. E. G. Case, Mrs. Springer Crawford, Mrs. Daniel Packard, Mrs. Edward Thomas, and Mrs. Thomas Steiner.

Student Appointed
LEBANON, Dec. 15.—Miss Peggy Parry, who was connected with a Lebanon newspaper before enrolling at Miami university in September, has been chosen a member of the executive board of the college, her father Paul L. Parry, and school teacher, has been informed. Miss Parry was graduated from Lebanon high school last May with magna cum laude honors.

A GIFT FROM PARFUMS MEANS SO MUCH MORE!

GRUEN
SIDE CURVEX

15 Jewels

What could be more appropriate as a gift

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Gifts that keep on giving from

Baynham's

Join Dayton Philharmonic; Unable To Go To Baltimore

BY VIRGINIA D. STURM

THE annual appearance of the Inland Children's chorus will be the occasion for the Dayton Philharmonic Orchestra's gala Christmas program Tuesday night.

The concert is to be given in the auditorium of the Masonic Temple under the direction of Paul Katz.

The Inland Children will be directed by Richard Westbrook. The chorus has made several appearances with the orchestra, and on each appearance has but strengthened their situation musically in the community.

It is unfortunate that conditions will not permit the Inland Children's chorus to accept the invitation from the program committee of the Biennial Convention of the National Federation of Music clubs to appear on the program in Baltimore in April.

Moving a large chorus of this type, and the people which would be required to look after their welfare would be a tremendous undertaking.

It is likely that the chorus will be able to sing at the next convention which will be in the mid-west, probably, in 1941.

Mary Werner MacCash has been the accompanist of the chorus since its inception.