Children's Yule Concert Goes Public

Traditional Christmas concert by the Inland Children's chorus this year will be opened to the public. The program, at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 16, will be presented at Memorial hall.

In the past the concerts have been open only to Inland employes and their families and guests. This year, a limited number of free tickets will be available at the Michael Hauer music stores, the Roetter Music Co. and the Bowser Music shop. Tickets also have been sent to the music departments of the city's schools.

The 100-voice chorus, now in its 34th year, is under the direction of Joseph Geiger. James Will serves as accompanist.

The program will feature popular carols as well as secular holiday music.
